The Moravian Church practices open Communion, which means that all who profess Jesus Christ as Lord are welcome at the table. After each element is consecrated, the pastor and acolyte will serve the bread and cup to the congregation. If you would like to receive Holy Communion, please stand when the pastor and acolyte reach your pew. Once all have been served, we will partake together.

There are prepackaged communion caps available in the Narthex if needed. Please see an usher.

If you need a gluten free wafer, please let the pastor or acolyte know when they are serving your pew.
